Guest Speaker - Neroli Holmes, Deputy Commissioner, Anti-Discrimination Commission of Queensland

Neroli Holmes is the Deputy Commissioner at the Anti-Discrimination Commission Queensland. She has previously been the Registrar of the Anti-Discrimination Tribunal (now part of QCAT) and has also held the position of Legal Officer in the Commission. In these roles she has managed the regional offices of the ADCQ in Cairns, Townsville and Rockhampton; been the principal author of the 2006 'Women in Prison Report'; managed and conciliated many complaint cases; and been involved in providing advice on human rights issues in Queensland.

Prior to working with the Anti-Discrimination Commission and Tribunal she worked in a number policy roles in the Queensland Government in the Office of Premier, and in the former Department of Family Services and Aboriginal and Islander Affairs (now the Department of Communities). She was particularly involved in policy work associated with the Mabo decision of the High Court, and with land rights and other legislation impacting on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples in Queensland.

Ms Holmes is a solicitor of the Supreme Court of Queensland. Earlier in her career she practised law in Queensland working in several legal firms where she specialised in defamation, industrial law and personal injury cases. She has also worked in the United Kingdom as a legal advisor and solicitor to a number of statutory authorities. She is a graduate of the University of Queensland with a BA/LLB (Hons).
